SURPRISED THEIR FRIENDS

Miss Mary Jessie Brownell
Becomes Mrs. Ben

WEDDED IN NASHVILLE.

Quiet Trip to Tennessee Yesterday and Married By

Mr. Ben S. Winfree and Miss Mary Jessie Brownell went over to Nashville yesterday morning and soon after their arrival were joined in marriage at the home of Dr. E. L. Southgate, who performed the ceremony.

They had been sweethearts for a long time, in fact, since they were children, but the marriage was entirely unexpected at this time.

They are both in the cast of "Why Smith Left Home," a local show to be given at the Opera House Feb. 16th and were present at a rehearsal the night before until a late hour. Without taking their friends into their confidence, except two of the young ladies, who, strange to say, were able to keep the secret, they quietly laid their plans and left on the 6:15 train yesterday for Nashville. At Guthrie they were joined by Browne Whitlow and in Nashville were met by Mrs. Hardison, Mr. Winfree's sister. They lost but little time in getting the license and having the ceremony over with. They will remain in Nashville until tonight, arriving home in time for another rehearsal.

The bride is one of the "Oomswee Club girls," bright, pretty and an accomplished musician. She is one of the most popular belles of the city; the only child of Mr. F. J. Brownell, president of the Crescent Milling Company. The groom is a son of Judge W. P. Winfree and is a young man of wide popularity and many admirable qualities.

They will board with Mrs. J. H. Ware, on South Virginia street.

The marriage was not an elopement. The young couple only went to Nashville to spring a surprise on their friends.

The Revival.

Rev. Davis is still, apparently, in good physical condition, though he has been holding two or three services a day for nearly five weeks. He said Tuesday night that he had been looking for a place to stop the meetings but hasn't yet found it. So the public may expect the meeting to close any night or continue for another week. There were three conversions Tuesday night, one of them a prominent young business man.

Skating Rink.

Roller skating is again becoming popular in larger cities. The exercise is said to be one of the best forms of physical culture. Mr. Gano Bullard has about completed his arrangements and expects to open up a rink here in a few days.

Messdams John Young and W. D. Ennis left Tuesday for Paducah on a week's visit to Mrs. Dr. Garber.

S. K. COLLEGE TO STAY HERE.

Special Committee Held Highly Important Meeting Last Tuesday Night.

GIFT OF $10,000 MADE.

Work of Rebuilding On Large Scale to Be Commenced Early in Spring.

All probability of the city losing South Kentucky College has been set at naught and everything points to the erection of a much more commodious and modern building than the old one, which was partially burned last fall.

The old debt of the institution, which has hung like an incubus over the officers and friends of the college is to be lifted by a donation from Mr. James R. Rash, of Earlinton. Mr. Rash has given $10,000 for this purpose, on condition that the main building is to bear the name of "M. F. Rash Memorial Hall," in memory of the deceased son of the donor.

Rumor says that it is highly probable that another large donation may soon be made. If it is it will be sufficient to erect a ladies' dormitory sufficient to accommodate all lady boarders who may hereafter come here to attend the college.

The gentlemen composing the special committee to raise funds for rebuilding the college have been tireless in their efforts, though at times clouds of discouragement have hung about them and the way seemed dark. But nothing seems to have deterred them from accomplishing the task laid upon them, and they are now where they see their way out of all difficulties—so encouraged are they that the announcement has gone forth that as soon as favorable weather sets in and plans have been prepared the erection of the building proper will begin.

But this announcement should not prevent any one contemplating aid from promptly replying to the call of the committee. A great deal of money will be needed after the building is completed for furniture and proper equipment. Now that rebuilding is an assured fact, so much more the reason for those who are able to step forward and lend the helping hand.

The special committee have been immeasurably assisted in their work by Rev. J. W. Hardy, the man who was called into service when the first building was destroyed, and whose services were deemed indispensable, when the second misfortune befell the institution. All praise to the whole staff of them, and may their every anticipation be fully realized. So say the people.

Married at High Noon.

A high noon wedding took place in the office of County Clerk Gabe L. Campbell yesterday. After securing their license, the contracting parties, Mr. Isaac Leslie Boyd and Miss Belvie Walker, called in County Judge James Breathitt, who in a few well chosen words declared them man and wife. The bride and groom came here from Kelly, where they will reside.

MRS ELLIOTT'S DEATH.

Was Confined to Her Bed Only a Week.

Mrs. Effie Walker Elliott, wife of Mr. R. L. Elliott, died at her home on Brown street at an early hour yesterday morning. The immediate cause of her death was the bursting of an abscess on the lungs, though she had been suffering for about a week with something like tuberculosis. She was only confined to her bed one week. Mrs. Elliott was 28 years of age and was a noble christian woman. She united with the First Presbyterian church when quite a young girl and was a woman of strong faith. She is survived by her husband and two brothers, Messrs William and J. T. Walker, of this city.

Funeral services will be held at the family residence this morning at 9:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. E. H. Bull. The remains will be interred by those of her mother, who died last April, in the Grace burying ground, about six miles from town on the Greenville road.

New Knights.

County Clerk Gabe L. Campbell and Mr. M. H. McGrew will be initiated into the order of Knights of Pythias at the meeting of Evergreen lodge to-night.

THE GROUSE'S DRUMMING.

Explanation of Sound to Which Mystery Has Always Attached—Whistle of Woodcock.

Few subjects have been so much discussed by sportsmen and the whistle of the woodcock and the drumming of the ruffed grouse. To the latter sound much mystery has always attached, says Forest and Stream. The dull roar of this comes out of the forest at a distance in the depth of the forest, and excites the wonder of the listener, but its direction and its distance seem so uncertain that he is not likely to try to find it.

Few persons have seen the bird in the act of drumming, and of those few a still smaller number have been trained to observe the ways of nature to draw just conclusions from what they may have seen. Nevertheless many people—some observers and some theorists—have expounded their views on the subject. It has been declared that the grouse drums by beating his wings against the object on which he stands, against his own body, or against each other above the back; but none of these have satisfied all the conditions and all are to be rejected.

In the year 1905, however, Prof. C. F. Hodge, of Clark university, carried on a series of observations on his domesticated ruffed grouse which point to another explanation, and which appear to show that the sound is made by the rapidly repeated blows of the stiff wing-quills against the erected and expanded feathers of the side, which thus form a feather cushion.

Prof. Hodge says: "In fact, the sound, so far as quality goes, is best imitated by striking with a wing properly stretched or even a concave fan on an extremely light eiderdown cushion." Prof. Hodge conjectures, too, that the bird while drumming fills the air sacs of the breast and abdomen. "In this way the contour surfaces of the strong wing supports along the sides are made to inclose a large cavity filled with air and this acts like the resonance chamber of a drum, and yields the booming throbb to the air."

Prof. Hodge believes, as has long been agreed, that the drumming of the ruffed grouse is a mating call. The fact that the bird drums in autumn is no valid objection to this conclusion, since many birds produce in autumn sounds which we are accustomed to regard as peculiar to the breeding season, though such sounds are often or usually made by young birds.

CHANCE TO THROW STONES

Real Glass Houses Now Constructed in Des Moines—Idea of Iowa Designer.

That living in glass houses is not an idle dream is shown by Frank C. Perkins, in his article on "Modern American Glass Houses" in the Technical World Magazine. Mr. Perkins describes some recent structures of this character in Des Moines, as follows:

"These buildings were designed by C. E. Eastman, a well-known architect of Des Moines, Ia., whose idea of glass wall construction includes the use of milk-white opalescent wire glass one-quarter inch thick securely fixed in two steel vertical divisions, which are parallel and laced together for the purpose of stiffening. These divisions are supported at the floors by brackets riveted to steel channels of construction. The wall thus consists of two glazed screens separated by a foot of dead air space, which affords insulation against heat, cold or sound to as great an extent as would a solid brick wall of the same thickness.

"The double vertical divisions are spaced about four feet apart. The two glass screens are translucent to any degree desired, so that in cases where windows are not necessary for viewing the landscape, they may be dispensed with altogether, provided the building would warrant the installation of mechanical ventilation and heating. The exterior effect is that of a marble wall with or without windows."

Wings.

"Do you think there will be any automobiles in the next world?" said she.

"No," he replied, sadly, "there would be anything but flying machines."—Detroit Free Press.

PRESERVATION OF WATER.

Invisible Plant, a Tiny Alga, Keeps Water Pure—What Experiments Prove.

A recent discovery in Germany concerns a tiny alga, which is not visible to the naked eye, which possesses the remarkable property to preserve the water in which it exists in a state of great purity for an almost unlimited period. The little plant possesses, also, the advantage of multiplying rapidly and derives in almost all kinds of fresh water. To the alga the presence of these algae is noticeable through the brilliant green color of the water, which it contains a large number of them. The two scientists have succeeded in keeping brook trout alive in a large-sized vessel for six weeks, to that their taste at the end of this period did not appear to be impaired in the least. This is all the more remarkable, as it is well known that otherwise brook trout can only be kept alive in running water. Leeches have been kept alive by the same process a year and a half without change of the water. Experiments have already been made to make practical the use of the discovery for the transportation of live fish.

Live brook trout, for instance, were shipped by rail, the journey consuming seven hours, at a temperature of 25 degrees, in vessels filled with water, to which these algae had been added. The trout were all fresh upon arrival, while of others shipped at the same time in pure water not containing these algae not a single trout arrived alive. The explanation of this phenomenon is probably that these algae, like other green plants, decompose the carbonic acid exhaled by the fish, and so re-oxygenize the water. The two scientists are also of the opinion that the algae also render the poison which may have been secreted by the fish harmless.

CHULA, MISSOURI.

HOW IT WAS PLACED ON THE MAP.

Very likely you have not heard of Chula. It is not strange, because Chula has, but recently, been placed upon the map of a state whose citizens insist upon being "shown" and who refuse to give proper attention to their credit.

The man who compelled the map-makers to take notice of Chula, and who is the uncommon name of Smith—G. I. Smith. He continues to be known as the proprietor of a razor-sharp hog farm, mortgaged from the front doorstep to the back pasture lot, than he does like an editor. He is a man of his book of letters in his soul. He is, in fact, the author of the only honest book of poems ever published. When he prepared a copy of his book of letters to the general passenger agent, R. A. Miller, in recognition of the "greatest time of his career," he told him confidentially that he had selected the title which the book bears, "Four Fushes." In order to beat the book reviewers to the expression.

"I knew them fellows would have to read something," explained Smith, "and I reckoned they'd just read the first thing that came to hand, and, of course, that was the title. When they reached the poetry the stuff was so much better than the title that they had to boom it."

Smith's great opportunity came when the St. Paul and the Southwest Limited train into service between Chicago and Kansas City, when he wrote the following about the train: "The new train on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway passed through Chula for the first time Sunday night, about three hours after dark. There was no hesitation at Chula town, at least none perceptible. There are no high places in Chula town, hence we question whether we ever touched the track. She just ripped a great fiery hole in the darkness and made a dash for it. She beat steam hot for a second, then whistled for Nantico or Chicago, we are not certain which. If Central had not been closed, we would have telephoned to Chicago to see if she hadn't run clear through the Union station. She is sure 'nuf a 'hurry-up train.' Chicago is only about three miles up the alga and she is a clam of summer sunlight, vestibuled and electric lighted from the cowcatcher clear back a hundred yards behind the last coach. She is knee deep with velvet carpets and her cushions are as soft as a girl's cheek. She is lighted to a dazzle and heated to a frazzle. She was built to beat the world, and her gorgeous appointments make us chafe to think we have a pass on her. She goes so fast that the six porters look like one big fat nigger. She is called 'The Southwest Limited.' She stops going both ways at Chillicothe, and you can get on there, but you'll have to hurry."

In the gratitude of his heart the general passenger agent wrote the post-editor that whenever he desired to come to Chicago he would be more than pleased to cause the Southwest Limited to pass long enough at Chula to take him on and again to let him off. This offer was accepted by wire, as Editor Smith does not believe in voyaging with fortune nor flirting with opportunity. It was too late for the limited that day, so Editor Smith set the following day as the date for his journey. Then he wrote a piece for his paper, as everything that happens or anything does happen in Chula, he news and told the citizens that he was going to Chicago on the limited and as the guest of the general passenger agent and of the town.

The story took the entire front page of the Chula News, with cuts of the editor and of the train. As might be expected, the entire business of Chula was suspended the following day, and every man, woman and child not bedridden was down to the depot bright and early. The Chula band in full uniform was here playing suggestive music, the conquering heroes, and Chula's mayor revised his last Fourth of July "oration" to fit the occasion.

About the time he reached the spread-eagle stage of his address there was a long, mournful wail pitched in a minor key which sounded like the expiring war whoop of an Apache Indian. It was the Southwest Limited halting Chula. Mr. Editor Smith grasped his new $2.75 suit case firmly by both straps and waited, all tremble with excitement. The band began a furious fanfaring and the citizens of Chula held their breaths. There were two more long wails, followed by two short ones, as the limited snorted steam down upon Chula's only grade crossing, a cloud of blinding dust, an answering "toot" to the tower man as he dropped the semaphore indicating a clear track and a faint moan was heard upon a passing breeze to Smith and to Chula's population as the mogul whistled for Nantico or Chicago, which?

Smith, standing in complete stillness with grip in hand and with Chula's population gazing seemingly with a million eyes clear through him, didn't care much which it was. Without a look at his fellow citizens, he sent the general passenger agent a telegram which read: "What is the time for four fushes, then?"

Needless to say that it was all a mistake. The general passenger agent apologized by wire, the train did not forget to hesitate at the following day. And thus was Chula, Mo., placed upon the map—Chicago Record-Herald.

JAPANESE DINNER QUANT.

Hostess Never Eats Until Desserts Are Brought In—Guests Arranged According to Rank.

In Japan the lady of the house does not appear at the dinner, unless there are ladies among the guests, but she comes in with the tea and sweetmeats which always precede a dinner, as our cooks, tails and sherry. She greets the guests when they arrive and receives them. The good-lays are said. Silk, cushions, are scattered about the floor and the guests are arranged according to their rank. Little tables, some six inches high, are placed before each one, and barefooted waiting maids in graceful and prettily tinted kimonos bring in lacquer trays, with tiny covered bowls. Before leaving the trays on the tables they set them on the floor, and dropping on their knees, make their best bow, touching their heads to the floor. Chopsticks take the place of knives and forks and are never used unless they are left in the bowls. Then they are of carved ivory of the most exquisite workmanship, as are the trays and bowls.

Fortunately for the stranger in that land of queer customs, the host sets the example by removing the covers from the bowls. In each course there are a half dozen dishes and the host tells what they are. First, sashimi, a bean soup; kuchitori, chestnuts boiled and crushed into a mush; kamaboko, fish picked fine and rolled into little balls and baked; sashimi, raw fish cut into thin slices and served in ice. This is dipped into rich sauce called soy, and is really very good. Little cups of warm sake, the native brandy made from rice, is served with each course. Napkins and bread are unknown quantities. The second course is of fish boiled whole; umami, bits of fowl boiled with potatoes or lotus roots; a salad of onions, peas and string beans; with a few leaves of lettuce; sunomono, sea snails served with eggplant mashed, and chaman-mushi, a thick soup made of fish and vegetables, with mushrooms for a relish. The third course is of a curry of rice and picked vegetables, and for a fourth and final course you have solo, a sort of buckwheat vermicelli served with soy, and a sweet liquid called mirin; shiruko, rice cakes, seaweed and confections of all sorts which are sweet and tasty.

BIG RECORD IN LILY BULBS

Exports of This Article from China Will Break All Standing Marks When Count Is In.

Exports of Easter lilies or narcissus bulbs from China this year will break all records. Fifty tons went out of Amoy in one vessel bound for the United States last week, and the next steamer for the Pacific coast is to take a similar shipment.

The prospects are that there will be at least $35,000 worth of these bulbs shipped to the United States this year, exceeding the ordinary record by perhaps $5,000.

The bulbs are raised in the Changchow district, about 30 miles inland from Amoy. The flowers are popular among the Chinese, having more or less of a religious significance, although nothing like the significance commonly believed in the United States.

The extent to which they have come to be sold in the United States can best be realized when the volume of exports from the producing district is realized. In 1902, 1,600,000 bulbs were exported; in 1903, 2,248,000; in 1904, 2,630,716, valued at $35,627. The exports this year will probably reach $43,000.

Character Lives After Death.

The only thing that walks back from the tomb with mourners and refuses to be buried is character. What a man is survives him. It never can be buried. It stays about the home when his footsteps are heard there no more. It lives in the community where he was known.—La Harpe (Kan.) Journal.

Kind of Rest He Needed.

Husband—I saw the doctor to-day. He advised me to take a rest trip.

Wife—Did you show him your tongue?

"No, but I told him about yours."

MRS. TIMMINS' MEDICINE CHEST.

"My dear," said Mrs. Timmins, after a long and gloomy pause, "my dear, I'm not feeling well to-night, and I think I'll take some of those anti-bilious pills. The idea of you of having a little medicine chest, with everything handy, is an excellent one, and if you can find those pills, I'll take a dose."

"They are just what you need," said Mrs. Timmins, sympathetically; "your tongue is coated and your complexion looks very yellow lately."

"I don't remember calling on you for any remarks about my complexion," Mrs. Timmins, and as for my tongue being coated, we will assume that it has also been over-vast, and boots. What I asked for was pills, Mrs. Timmins—pills, not oratory."

Mrs. Timmins bustled to the cupboard, and, after considerable search, found a ribbon box with one end knocked out. In it were half a dozen blue papers that belonged to the bulky portion of a sedilla powder, a dose and a half cough mixture, a paper of salts, an empty arnica bottle, two lumps of sugar, four biscuits, half a lemon, a lump of camphor, a mustard and several pill boxes with one end covered.

"I don't think these are the pills you want," said Mrs. Timmins, holding the bottom of the mustard box. "Do you remember whether they were white, brown or black?"

"I'm not particular about the color," responded Mrs. Timmins, sarcastically. "This looks like them," said Mrs. Timmins, squashing one between her thumb and finger, and smelling it cautiously. "Do you remember whether they were sugar-coated?"

"I do not," rejoined Mrs. Timmins. "nor do I remember whether they were stand-up collars or a plug hat. If you think going to sit here like a book on heraldry and furnish you with the antecedents of those pills, you've lost sight of our relations, Mrs. Timmins. I want to know whether you like them or not."

"Is this one of them?" asked Mrs. Timmins, chasing a refractory pellet into a corner and fishing it out with some misgiving. "It looks like it, and I can't think what else it's for. Suppose you take it."

"Does it say so on the cover?" Does the cover say anti-bilious?" "I can't find the cover," responded Mrs. Timmins, helplessly. "Here's a box, will that do?"

"Oh, certainly, anything'll do for me," shuddered Mrs. Timmins. "All I want is a box and a pill. It doesn't make any difference whether they go together or not. Do you know a pill from a post office? Can you tell the difference between a pill box and a policeman? Do you suppose I'm going to eat one of those things without knowing whether it's a railway ticket or a policeman's warrant? What did you mix 'em up for? Do you think I'm going to speculate in those pills till one hits my liver? or to take 'em in courses like Equine banquet? Have I got to get out a search warrant to find those pills?"

"Suppose you put on this mustard plaster," suggested Mrs. Timmins, holding up a plaster. "Mustard is the best thing in the world to excite the action of the liver."

"Oh, yes, certainly, certainly," sneered Mrs. Timmins. "What a head you've got for physics! If I could get you to hold a red light in your mouth and tie a pestle and mortar round your neck, I'd start you for a drug store. How are you going to tie a mustard plaster round my liver? Don't you know the difference between a mustard plaster and a box of pills? What did you spill 'em for? Do you think I am going to eat mixed pills like candies? Best trying to make a pill salad, haven't you?"

"Let me think," said Mrs. Timmins, musingly. "You are white, one are quinine, these brown ones are opium; now I remember, and the black ones are the ones you want. How many make a dose?"

"None!" yelled Mrs. Timmins. "Do you suppose I'm going to take those things on their color? Think I'm going to run the chances of filling myself up with opium, just to test your eye for tint?" or shut my eyes and draw a pill, as if I was playing a game of forfeits? I don't want any pills. Throw 'em out! Pitch that medicine chest out of the window! Next time I want pills I'll—"

Mrs. Timmins went to the cupboard, put the chest away, and as she did so, noticed a little box that had fallen out on the shelf.

"Here they are, dear," she said, smiling, and pointed out the label to her wife.

"Oh, yes, of course," growled Mrs. Timmins. "you found 'em, didn't you? Couldn't give 'em to me at first, could you? Another time, Mrs. Timmins, I want you to let things alone. Don't ever put anything more of mine in that chest; you hear me? I don't want those things to-night, because I don't care what Mrs. Timmins, when I saw I want these pills where I can find 'em; you understand? I don't want to go rooting about the house after pills when I'm ill. You understand that?"

"Yes, dear," said Mrs. Timmins, slipping the pills into her pocket.—N. Y. Weekly.

Open Courtyard.

A court of law is a reminiscence of the time when justice sat in the open courtyard, and the "back" is from a German word meaning a receptacle, while the "bar" is a Welsh word, meaning a branch of a tree used to separate the lords of justice from their vassals.

Proof Positive.

"Your house is a very fine imitation of the old colonial style."

"Imitation nothing! If you don't think it's genuine, come in and I'll show you the cockroaches."—Cleveland Leader.

METROPOLIS IN MARIO.

Impression Which One May Glean in Watching a Great City Go Up Through Years.

The impressionist may watch not only the making of a people, but what is almost as novel, the making of a metropolis, says H. G. Dwight, in Scribner's. The process reflects with the fidelity of the nature and the temper of the elements at work. Architecturally the place is a chaos. The most catholic eclecticism vies with the wildest individuality. Whims sweep through it like an epidemic—whims of red brick, whims of brown stone, whims of white marble. You may mark where the tides of life beat least severely by the wreckage of an earlier period not yet borne under the onslaught of the new. But these relics have nothing of that indefinable touch which is of time. They have, rather, the air of a last year's hat. And they are discarded just as easily. It is as if the builders, in spite of their perpetual astonishment at the growth of the city, somehow knew that their work was experimental and wrought accordingly. They apologized for their inadequacy to a role to suddenly thrust upon them by offering the least possible resistance to their successors.

To an observer tender of tradition the wholesale obliteration of landmarks which is so significant a feature of the present period would seem wanton if it did not seem so engaging. An Old World landlord would think twice, if he thought at all, about pulling down a house that served its purpose. Here, on the contrary, great companies exist to no other end. As architects sometimes make models to see how their ideas will look, these people build houses to see how they look. And if the houses do not look well, the people sooner or later pull them down. Among all men of the earth these most completely enjoy the luxury of putting their betises into execution. Which, as disposing of troublesome obsessions, and as giving free play to the law of natural selection, is perhaps not a bad road to better things. At all events there is less caprice in it than might appear. It is the plasticity of youth—an unlimited susceptibility to the new idea, a juvenile scorn of merely practical difficulties.

HALTS A "SOCIETY QUEEN"

More Policemen Orders Mrs. Astor's Carriage Out Line with the Rest in New York.

When a social queen finds herself treated as a mere ordinary mortal—worse still, treated in that fashion by policemen—she and her friends do not recover from the audacious affront for a long time, asserts the New York Press. That explains why Mrs. Astor and her intimates still are talking indignantly about an incident of the night when the grand opera season in the Metropolitan was opened. Actually, she had to bow to new traffic regulations. Her carriage was ordered into line when it reached the upper end of Longacre square. It is said the coachman unbent his dignity far enough to stoop and whisper to a bluecoat that his august mistress preferred not to be detained. But the policeman had his orders, and if the queen of Sheba herself had begged for precedence he would not have granted it. So Mrs. Astor was 40 minutes late in reaching the opera house. Not that any holder of a box in the gilded horseshoe is ruffled by being late; the contrary is the case. "But what is the use of being society's leader if one is to be halted, actually halted, by some absurd regulation of some commissioner of something or other?" demand the Astor friends.

"Pointing Out the Difference."

"Getting money out of you," said Mrs. Pinner, as she pulled teeth.

"No, it is," Nancy," protested Mr. Pinner, reluctantly opening his pocketbook. "Pulling teeth nowadays is painless. This hurts."—Chicago Tribune.

The Weather.

For Kentucky: Generally fair and warm Thursday.

Eight negroes were burned to death in a burning house near Baltimore. Only one escaped.

Four people were killed in a railroad collision near Helena, Mont., Tuesday.

Scrator Ward's no-pass bill, the bill giving the Attorney General four assistants and clerks at salaries aggregating $8,700, the Allen bill appropriating $500, for a tuberculosis sanitarium and the Linn bill giving the county attorney instead of the county clerk a copy of the statutes, will be favorably reported.

The Rev. George H. Simmons, formerly of Louisville, was found dead in bed at Peoria, Ill., a victim of poison. He was engaged in preaching, politics and banking, and the combination proved his undoing. He was under investigation on grave charges, according to a Peoria dispatch. News of his tragic fate caused a big shock in Louisville, where he was well and highly known.

The department of Superintendence of the National Educational Association will meet for the first time in Louisville February 27, 28 and March 1, 1906. The body is composed of superintendents of schools of various cities, towns, counties and States; of college presidents, professors of education, normal school teachers and educational writers. It discusses all important methods of education and social reform connected not only with the public schools, but with the city, State and National Government.

Commonwealth's Attorney Denny P. Smith has filed suit against The Forbes Manufacturing Company, Planters Hardware Company the Hopkinsville Gas & Electric Company and Lockyear's Business College, all important incorporated business houses of the city, for alleged violation of law in committing the word "Incorporated" on their advertisements a year ago. We are very sorry indeed to note this disposition of Mr. Smith to harass the business men of Hopkinsville and proceed against them as law-breakers for such trivial overights, that have caused no damage to state or individual and have long since been corrected. This is especially so, as we regret when there is so much law-breaking that requires Mr. Smith's attention. For instance, the law requires a number of bawdy houses to be run in open violation of law in Christian counties, being interested with only by occasional confused fines of $25. It is a further fact that criminal laws are so poorly enforced that a small fine is often paid to be sufficient punishment for attempts on human life and in some cases, murders are let off with fines. There is enough for the courts to do without being used for the purpose of persecuting business men.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. ## SMALL BLAZE.

Over Skarry's Jewelry Store Tuesday Night.

A fire alarm was turned in from Skarry's jewelry store, 515 Ninth street, near Main, Tuesday night. Prompt work on the part of Mr. Skarry and his friends forestalled the work of the department.

In a room over the jewelry store, Skarry's there were stored a lot of the household goods of his brother, Mr. P. M. Skarry, who runs a bakery and confectionery. The living rooms of Mr. P. M. Skarry are over the confectionery. There has been no fire in the room across the hall, where the fire started this winter. Less than an hour after Mrs. Skarry left the room and went down stairs she started up again, and when within two or three steps of the landing she noticed a light shining under the door of the room across the hall. Knowing that something was wrong, she opened the door and found a lot of goods in a box on fire. She called her husband who gave the alarm and the fire was soon extinguished. Clothing, comforts, a chair etc., were more or less burned and Mr. Skarry's underclothing and other articles are missing. Mr. Skarry estimates his loss at about $25 or $30 on which there was no insurance.

There is every reason to believe that a sneak-thief was the cause of the fire, but no suspicion attaches to anyone. Mr. Skarry says there were matches in the room. His theory is that a thief entered the front door which was unlocked, and knowing that the house-clothing of the family was kept in that room and going up entered the room, struck a match, and obtaining such things as he wanted, dropped the match in a box without knowing it, and had made his way down stairs before Mrs. Skarry had started up to her room across the hall. Mr. Skarry is almost certain that the thief was a man, as his extra underwear was taken and nothing else is missing except the goods for a handsome men's comfort.

TABERNACLE BENEFIT

Don't Miss It. Friday Night, Feb. 9th.

It gives us great pleasure to present this novel and excellent programme, which is made up from the best available talent in Hopkinsville. There will not be one dull moment, there is just enough sensation, excitement, singing and music to suit all tastes.

Mr. J. Y. Capanus, you all remember perhaps as "Jim Capanus," has promised to give one of his character songs, and we consider him one of our headliners.

We have finally persuaded Mr. Bob Howell to give a banjo solo, and let us add that this will be worth going miles to hear. Those old Eclipse Orchestra men are a little nervous, having quit the business some forty years ago, but they are very enthusiastic after having had several rehearsals, and a treat is in store for all who hear them.

We also present two of the best readers in Hopkinsville, Mrs. Wm. H. Cummings, Jr., and Miss Elsie Wendemuth, of South Kentucky College.

In vocal soloists, it gives us pleasure to announce Mrs. Bakke, Harriet, Miss Wendemuth, Mr. Guy Starling.

Miss Lillian Gary will give one of her delightful violin solos.

The "Little Quartette" will give, among other songs, the "Samba and Diabla" song, which was the feature of the great "Dumpty Dumpty" show last week in Nashville. There will also be another vocal quartette selected from the members of the Eclipse Orchestra. Their selections will be from their old repertoire songs, "Swing low sweet chariot," "Keep in the middle of the road," "I'm traveling through an unfriendly world," "Good-bye Darling," "I'm tired now and sleepy too," and many others.

Other novel numbers will be announced daily in papers. Prices, Reserved seats, in front, 75c. General admission 50c. Children under 12 years 25c. The child's ticket will be found at the Tabernacle door.

We guarantee satisfaction, or refund the money paid for admission. Tickets are selling very rapidly, and you had best reserve your tickets promptly. We expect the largest audience of the season.

Mrs. Bramham's Return.

Major and Mrs. Bramham have returned to Hopkinsville from Grand Rapids, Wis. Mrs. Bramham for many years was principal of our school and is loved by every child. Her resignation last year caused regret throughout the whole school. Since she left here she has visited her daughter at Omaha, Neb., and her son at Grand Rapids, Wis., and has now come back to "God's country," as she expressed it.

She made a visit to our school Wednesday afternoon and was joyfully welcomed. She looks well and is as jolly as ever. We hope her visits will be frequent, as everyone enjoys them. It reminds us of old times.—W. I. Society News.

H. M. DALTON

Elected Secretary of the Commercial Club.

The Executive Committee of the Commercial Club met in president's room of the Commercial and Savings Bank last Monday afternoon. All the members of the Committee were present with one exception. The only business before the meeting was the election of a Secretary of the club. Mr. H. M. Dalton was put in nomination and was unanimously elected.

Mr. Dalton is one of our most enterprising and progressive citizens, and is peculiarly qualified for the place. Probably there is no man who had been considered for the position who would so well fill the place to which he has been chosen. When it is considered that this organization is composed of the real bone and sinew of Hopkinsville—men who are alive to the best interest of the city, and thus pass into the hands of Mr. Dalton matters of vital importance to our growth and development—where is there a man who will throw into the discharge of his duties of his office, the earnestness and vim of Mr. Dalton? And where can be found men, better qualified to watch the trend of affairs better than M. C. Forbes, J. H. Anderson, E. B. Bassett, W. T. Fandy, J. E. McPherson, George D. Dalton, J. T. Wall and James West, who compose the Executive Committee, backed by the President, Dr. J. B. Jackson, and F. W. Dadey, Vice-President?

Truly the club is well manned and there is a great and highly useful future before it.

DIED OF DROPSY.

John C. Koon Passes Away at His Home in this City.

After a lingering illness Mr. John C. Koon, who lived on South Campbell street, died of dropsy of the heart last Tuesday morning.

Mr. Koon was a member of the Methodist church and Dr. Lyon, his pastor, was with him at the time of his death, which was peaceful and not clouded by a single doubt as to his future life. His dying testimony was, "All is perfectly clear, I know I am going to heaven—not a single doubt about it." These words were uttered while his wife and children and friends were around his death bed watching vitality gradually fade away.

Mr. Koon had the joy of hearing his three children confess their faith in Christ just before his death. The night before, while his two oldest children were at the Methodist church, he offered a fervent prayer that they would give themselves to God, which they did before returning home. Then his thoughts turned to his little boy who was called in to the room, and he, too, assured his father that he had accepted Christ. A short time after he bade his loved ones farewell and passed into the great beyond.

Mr. Koon at one time was employed in the blacksmith department of the Forbes Mfg. Co., and was a conscientious and faithful workman. He was about 40 years of age and came here from the Longview neighborhood. His wife was Miss Haney, a step-daughter of Mr. James H. Bradshaw. The remains were interred in Hopewell Cemetery.

CUBAN MINISTER TO THE U. S.

Recommends Pe-ru-na.

Senor Quesada, Cuban Minister to the United States.

Senor Quesada, Cuban Minister to the United States, is an orator born. In an article in The Outlook for July, 1899, by George Kennan, who heard Quesada speak at the Esteban Theater, Matanzas, Cuba, he said: "I have seen many audiences under the spell of eloquent speech and in the grip of strong emotional excitement; but I have rarely witnessed such a scene as at the close of Quesada's eulogy upon the dead patriot, Marti." In a letter to The Peruna Medicine Company, written from Washington, D. C., Senor Quesada says:

"Peruna I can recommend as a very good medicine. It is an excellent strengthening tonic, and it is also an efficacious cure for the almost universal complaint of catarrh."—Gonzalo De Quesada.

Congressman J. H. Bankhead, of Alabama, one of the most influential members of the House of Representatives, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., gives his endorsement to the great catarrh remedy, Peruna, in the following words:

"Your Peruna is one of the best medicines I ever tried, and no family should be without your remarkable remedy. As a tonic and catarrh cure I know of nothing better."—J. H. Bankhead.

There is but a single medicine which is a radical specific for catarrh. It is Peruna, which has stood a half-century test and cured thousands of cases. If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O. All correspondence strictly confidential.

DIVIDEND PAYING Oil and Mining Stocks

Other high grade oil and mining stocks and bonds for sale. The OILS, well No. 11, Lease 10, has been brought in during the month as an oil well equal to any on the lease and is a good producer. Well No. 12, Lease 10, has been drilled and is flowing well. This makes 12 wells independent of No. 12 on lease 10, owned by the four companies, drilled without a single "dry hole."

The four Oase Oil Companies owning the above wells have returned to stock holders during the year in monthly dividends, the sum of $240,000, against an actual investment in property and development of approximately $600,000, with a handsome surplus yet remaining in their profit fund by extra dividends, subject to the action of the stockholders at their annual meetings to be held in January.

Withdrawal of all stock of the four companies has been entirely withdrawn from the market. An announcement is probably to be made in later days of the entire withdrawal from the market of the stock of the Interstate Oase Petroleum Co., which will begin dividends in January at the same rate as the other four Oase Petroleum Co. stocks. This Company has demonstrated by its well already brought in that it has an oil well, capable, with development, of producing the best Oase Petroleum Company oil in the world, in the Hartsville District, and it has a surplus in its profit fund of practically $100,000. The present time is favorable for dividends. All stockholders desiring to secure their stock worth $2000, are advised to purchase prior to the date of its withdrawal.

The Interstate Oase Petroleum Co. now has in its profit fund approximately $2000, against an investment in the property and development of some of less than $25,000, which is a remarkable record for the Oase properties for 1905.

THE COLD SNAP.

Mercury Hovers Close to Zero—An Ice Spell.

The cold wave which struck Kentucky Sunday night, hit Hopkinsville hard, knocking the mercury in the tube almost down to zero. The Government thermometer, in charge of Mr. W. F. Randle, registered Tuesday morning only two degrees above zero, which was about six degrees lower than at any time during the winter. Yesterday morning the mercury dropped to zero, as recorded by the Government thermometer. At nine o'clock the mercury had not moved up a particle at the First National Bank and seemed stuck at zero.

The cold wave was general all over the State, but at no point was it more acutely felt than here. Big snows fell in several sections of the State, a very heavy one falling at Owensboro.

Last winter Hopkinsville "low-red the record" over all other places in the State, with Owensboro a close second. Nobody is kicking now. The farmers, however, may yet be heard from, as some of them have been apprehensive that extreme cold weather would prove destructive to the wheat crop, which is so far advanced as to force, in some sections of the county, the grazing of cattle to keep it back. Other farmers have been wishing almost to the praying point for weather cold enough to furnish them with an ice crop. Now that their wishes have been realized they will have to find something else to wish for. Yesterday morning many of the farmers began putting up ice and if the cold spell continues until to-day it is thought they will all have their ice houses about filled. The ice on the ponds was about 31 inches thick yesterday morning.

Some one remarked jocularly Monday that he was "glad the weather was not cold enough to stop the running of street cars." He is about as much in advance of the day as was a lady who was visiting some friends here last summer. She wanted to return a call to a friend who lived out some distance on another street, and, when ready to start, asked her hostess where she should get a car to a certain place. Imagine her surprise when she was told "Hopkinsville has no street cars." She never dreamed that a place the size of this, with all its energy and business, was trying to do without street cars. When she returns her surprise will be that "we have 'em," and "got 'em" in no short a time.

ICICLES.

Skating was enjoyed Tuesday night, large parties of young people being out. Everybody who wanted to had a chance yesterday.

Dr. Anderson says, "This is not white man's weather. It is mean dog weather, and a bob-tail dog, at that."

The fire in the basement of the Cumberland telephone office was allowed to burn down Tuesday night. In consequence, central "got it in the neck" badly from frozen pipes. "Smith" was seen in Nashville Tuesday, and if he went there to find a warmer climate, he made a mistake, and returned the next day to roast his shins by the radiator in his office.

Mr. Waltz, in charge of the weather bureau at Louisville, says that reports from all sections of the State indicate that fruit trees are in good condition and that wheat, rye and winter oats are thriving nicely.

The local coal dealers have been reaping a harvest, while the indigent poor negroes, with but one or two exceptions, have had to apply to the mayor in larger numbers than at any time this winter for supplies of coal to keep them from freezing.

Walter Kelly, in attempting to tell how wise the weather bureau man is and why his forecasts are not always fulfilled, says that "a drop from above is what fools like." He has not yet explained how a "drop" can come from any other source but "from above."

28th Annual State Convention Meets at Lexington, Feb. 22.

A good representation from this city will probably attend the 28th annual State convention of the Young Men's Christian Association, which meets in Lexington on February 22nd, continuing in session four days.

Mr. P. C. Dix, of Louisville, was in the city Thursday. Mr. Dix is one of the four Secretaries of the State organization and is visiting different cities in the State with the view of inducing people who are interested in the work to attend the convention. Everybody will be welcomed who may attend, but only those who are members of the organization and present their credentials will be enlightened to entertainment. With the exception of the C. & O. every railway in the State has granted a rate of one fare for the round trip, plus 25 cents. This rate will apply to all who want to attend whether entitled to credentials or not. Mr. F. J. Brownell will issue credentials to all local people who want to attend. Among the gentlemen who will speak are: Rev. Dr. Ira Landrith, of Nashville; Dr. F. W. Hitt, President of Central University, Missouri; C. J. Hicks, C. J. Ober and Clayton C. Cooper, of New York City; I. E. Brown, of Illinois; L. A. Coulter, of Virginia; George T. Coxhead, of St. Louis; and others. Mr. E. W. Peck, of Minnesota, will conduct the musical part of the program. Regularly accredited delegates will be entertained by the citizens of Lexington.

ATHLETIC

Young Matron Smashes The Nose of Assailant

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 5.—"Rippy the Kisser," who has been terrorizing pretty women for the last ten days, almost came to grief late this afternoon, when he seized Mrs. Julia Hild, wife of Superintendent of the Board of Children's Guardians, and tried to caress her.

Mrs. Hild, who is prominent in society, and who is an active member of the physical culture class, was on her way home from a meeting of the club, when the "Kisser," described as good looking and aged 19, suddenly clutched her around the waist. Mrs. Hild did not scream, but she upper cut her assailant on the nose, drawing the blood which splattered on the snow at the mouth of an alley on Eighth, near Jefferson street. The man ran, pursued by James Stone and a negro woman. "Rippy the Kisser," tried to stab Mrs. Hild, but the blade of the weapon did not pass through the stays of her corset and fell to the ground. Mrs. Hild turned it over to the police.

LARGEST DIAMOND

Found Last Year and Weighs One and One Third Pounds.

1905 will be ever memorable because on Jan. 26 of that year Fred Wells, manager of the Premier mine in the Transvaal colony, South Africa, while going his round, picked up the largest diamond ever known or heard of in all history. It exceeds in size and weight and purity all of the fabulous diamonds we have read of. No writer of fiction has ever dared to imagine so large or so valuable a diamond as Mr. Wells actually picked up from the dump that afternoon. Estimated by the ordinary price per carat, its value is not less than $9,000,000. It weighs 3,024 carats, or 1.37 pounds avoirdupois, and its dimensions are four by two and a half by one and a half inches. It is extremely pure, clear and water white, and Dr. Molengraff, the government geologist of the Transvaal, describes it as "resembling a piece of transparent ice."

You pay 3 cents for three good smokes. You save 10 cents on three useless heads.

OLD VIRGINIA

CHEROOTS

Package of 3 for 5c.

Three good cheroots for 5 cents, and three good reasons why they don't cost just three times as much:

- 1—The Old Virginia Cheroot is a cigar made without the head. The little useless but costly hand-made head of a cigar—the tip end that you must bite off before you light up—costs as much to make as the whole cigar. It's already off when you buy your Old Virginia Cheroots. You pay your money for smokes—and never a cent wasted.
- 2—The Old Virginia Cheroot is made from exactly the same tobacco as regular 5-cent cigars. Binder and wrapper are from the same bales. The filler is rolled from the shorter leaves and the clippings of the larger ones. This economical way of separating the leaf by sizes helps to save you a third of every nickel you spend for smokes.
- 3—The Old Virginia Cheroot is made by systematic modern methods that not only produce even, dependable quality year after year—but that cut out the waste of the usual hap-hazard cigar-making processes. It is produced in quantities so immense that the manufacturing cost is cut down to bed-rock. 1,000,000 Old Virginia Cheroots finished and packed every day in the finest, largest, cleanest cigar-factory in the world.

St. Louis Live Stock Market.

(Special Correspondence.) National stock Yards, Ill., Feb. 7.—Comparing the market with one week ago today, beef steers sold 15 to 25 cents higher at the close last week, but 10 to 15 cents of this advance was lost the fore part of this week. Bulk of the pretty good to choice steers sold $5.25 to $5.75, however, we topped the market with one load of choice 1300 pound Missouri blacks. A good grade of decent light weight steers is selling from $4.50 to $5.00. Butcher grades showed even more advance than beef steers and came nearer holding it. We had some sales showing 25 to 40 cents advance from the early part of last week, however, the wire edge is off the market today and the undertone a little weak. The supply is about equal to the demand, including some choice heifers at $4.75 to $5.25 and prime cows at $4.25 to $4.50. Under light receipts of stockers and feeders was limited but the demand is good with prices ranging from $4.00 to $4.50 for choice feeders down to $3.50 for decent light weights.

An extreme top of $5.92 1/2 has been reached on hogs, indicating the correctness of our prediction last week when the top was $5.60. With 14,000 on sale yesterday the top was $5.85 with lots of good hogs selling around $5.80 and the general run of butchers $5.75. While a slight reaction would not be out of order, yet the hog position is strong and we expect to tell you of 6-cent hogs before long.

Sheep receipts run largely to western lambs selling around $5.65, western yearlings around $5.75 and stockers at $3.75. Lambs are 25 to 30 cents lower and sheep a quarter lower than a week ago.

If Mr. Ground-hog continues to "make good" conditions will favor a strong market for all kinds of live stock. EVANS-SNIDER-BUEL Co.

The Fashions of the Day

An authority tells us the short sleeve for street wraps will last no longer than this season, but surely it is not much the thing this year. And surely Santa Claus this year brought many a maid and matron most welcome additions to their stocks of long gloves. It seems there never were so many calls for long gloves.

The white shirt waist is worn by everybody in the mornings, we simply cannot give up this trim and dainty garment. Neckwear for the wash-waist, the corset, the high collar, the fashionable stocks of various sorts are popular, and many line ones have hand-made turn-over collars. It is to be hoped women will adhere to washable neckwear, it is the only really desirable kind. One reason men look better than women after an all-day downtown because of their daily fresh linen, because they display no soiled finery.

We may affect the laundered collar later on, but again take up the Windsor tie, this year there is appearing a Windsor with embroidered ends. Both plain and plaid effects are in vogue in this tie. The favored width is five inches, the favored colors, white, navy and cardinal. For lingerie waists there are exquisite self-embroidered lingerie stocks. Japanese embroidery on waists and in neckwear promises to be more than ever the rage; likewise chemisettes lose no jot of their popularity, but now preference is given those of finest texture and made from all-over embroidery and lace frills.

Bits of silk picked up at to-day's bargain counters may be saved for the gray voile spring gown, for flowered silks go so prettily with certain soft tones of gray, and the combination is the essence of style. Aprons, cloches and a lovely evening wrap, and the trimming to use for such a wrap is heavy lace. Not a few of the wraps are made without sleeves, in long capes, not unlike those we see in old-fashioned fashion plates.

Some Ornaments for the Hair

A woman said to me the other day—"to be sure it was a hairdresser—let a woman look to her hair dressing and her hat and she need not worry. And there is no little truth in the statement, though few there be of us that seem to profit by knowledge of the fact.

This year especially the coiffure is something not to be neglected, and every woman should pay careful attention to this item—climax, rather—of dress. While there is no one style which may be said absolutely to rule, yet there are certain things modish, certain others not. It is all very well to assert that a woman should not observe changing fashions in hair-dressing, that she should keep to one style that has been found becoming; she should certainly never go in for a fashion that is not becoming to her individual face and form, but she may adopt certain little changes that will bespeak attention to the mode. As for instance, this season for full dress she may add some form of ornament to her coiffure.

As a rule the hair ornaments are modest and pretty rather than obtrusive, though in Paris they have gone in for long erelets and even birds of paradise feathers. A soft low pompadour is decorative and becoming, also the single rose, and also the cluster of small blossoms. Sometimes from the half wreath there will arise at one side a short ostrich feather, sometimes the wreath will terminate in butterfly bows. The single ostrich tip has been worn by generations of women, and is again in vogue; it is a sort of regal touch to the toilette, suggests court receptions, queen's drawing room—though worn by a very humble little girl at her first dance. The lace and jeweled butterfly has also had a long life, just why we cannot say.

Newer modes are upstairing sprays of gold and silver wheatears intermingled with grasses, and we should speak of the use of other shimmering costume be warm. It is better to be too warm than too cool. Better to wear a little than to shiver.

It is a little wait; for a tall, slender figure, for the admiration of the public, and for the name of being the youngest 60-year-old woman in the world.

Her majesty has no sacs under her eyes. And this is unusual, for they begin to come at 40. Her majesty has no crows feet around her mouth, and this is rare, for they begin to appear at 30. Her majesty has none of those strange horizontal lines running across the forehead, and this is marvelous, for they appear long before one has reached 30, and her majesty has few of those odd looking bags which are found at the tip of every chin and in the front of every throat—their bristly bags which are always present in middle age.

A dozen women of middle age were all looking at their throats the other day, they were long before one was trying to see if the throat was there. All were over 40 and all had the bristly. It is the soft bag of flesh which hangs from the tip of the chin to the throat and sometimes down upon the neck.

She Still Retains Her Figure

No one would believe how hard the work of England works. No working woman toils more steadily than she. Her object is to preserve her figure, make her waist little, make her figure tall and slim and preserve, generally, the outlines of her body.

Svelte is the only word to describe the queen of England's form. It is that of a girl of 19, mature, but not matronly; developed, but by no means bulky; curves, yet not rounding; tall, classic and ideal, yet not suited nor laced. And its price is eternal vigilance.

The queen lately has been going in for out-of-door fads. She is a believer in outdoor exercises and her reduction methods take the form of out-of-door work. She rows upon the Thames; she drives off the banks of Scotland; she drives an automobile in London and she works vigorously in the garden.

The queen walks little, yet walking is fine for the figure. Her majesty is a firm believer in it, but being slightly lame, she seldom indulges in it.

If you are walking for reduction, or if you are walking for figure, for the same purpose, be sure to dress for it. Let your

Attempt At a Character Sketch of "The Great American"

The Fame of Benjamin Franklin Unlabeled—A Man Too Great to Bother About Contemporary Accolades or Criticism—Yet Thoroughly Human.

It has not happened often that such distinction should fall to an individual that a whole nation should benefit from the reflected glory. In the distinction of Benjamin Franklin it seems to us this rare occurrence emerged. He was not known abroad—in both scientific and diplomatic circles—as "the great American." And today what name does the visiting foreigner use when addressing American audiences? He says "your Washington," but also "your Franklin."

It was most fitting the two hundredth anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's birth should be celebrated by the tribute of a nation that as a nation keeps green the memory of this great citizen, this great fellow countryman.

We hear repeatedly the phrase "the many-sided Franklin," but in reflecting on his career as a whole we like best to call him citizen. But what was the term—citizen, philanthropist, inventor, scientist, philosopher, diplomat, statesman—Franklin's fame remains undimmed; we moderns, so taxes on their private lands for the support of the English troops; this they had refused. Franklin had given his personal security to the Pennsylvania farmers for supplies and transportation for Braddock's men at the time of the French and Indian war. The matter of the Penn. taxes satisfactorily settled, he turned his attention to the stamp act and helped secure its repeal.

It was service rendered during the revolutionary war that is especially notable. He obtained from France aid and concessions which it is agreed no other man possibly could have. To the French he was especially "gratia," and to the most exclusive circles of Paris he had entrance, was there received with warmest appreciation. Political, scientific, literary France approved of this American, he was given what he asked for. And for once he was not modest; in asking for his country he asked much. Every schoolboy knows the aid he gave the American navy, every schoolboy knows the gift made by France to John Paul given to tearing down, to irreverence, still yield his full homage.

Yes, Franklin is a name to conjure by; for he is both hero and brother. History has not glossed over the facts of his life as it has done with Washington; biographers have presented Benjamin Franklin to us as a very human human. And therefore endeared, as Lowell says:

"His magic was not far to seek. 'He was so human.'"

Franklin was no saint; perhaps we may call him an honest sinner. For honesty was his in as great degree as simplicity. To the end he was unaffected, unassuming, so devoted to the interests of life he had no thought to waste on world renown, or the accumulation of vast wealth. We like, among the numberless interesting stories handed down, the little anecdote told of his manner of announcing the result of his investigations in the subject of electricity, the discovery of the identity of lightning with electricity. Some three calm months after the notable kite experiment, he wrote a short letter to a London paper, telling that in Philadelphia such an experiment had been made, and simply signed his initials to the announcement.

We like also his calm attitude of taking either praise or blame. When learned society and university, at home or abroad, conferred upon him honors and degrees in appreciation of his illustrious achievements, he smilingly accepted the appreciation, but on the whole seemed rather amused than puffed up. During his residence in England as representative for the colonies, when he was harshly censured by the mother country and colonists, he took reproach with silence, bided his time. It would seem a most desirable attribute for a diplomat to possess, a philosophic bent.

A well recognized authority tells us Franklin's greatest service to America was undoubtedly due to his skill in diplomacy. His public-spiritedness early indicated and continuing as long as life; his tireless studies and broad grasp of affairs; his prestige among scientific men of international celebrity; his neat wit and ability to get at the heart of a matter; all these tended to build up the success of our so very successful diplomat. And perhaps it would not be out of place here to review his services as our representative. On the mission to England he succeeded in obtaining what he had begun primarily sent out for, that the signers of the Declaration of Independence, of Pennsylvania, be made pay

Jones, the vessel rechristened Bon Homme Richard. Franklin obtained for his country, "bankrupt and almost hopeless," loans from France amounting to many millions of francs, and that in spite of the vigorous opposition of Necker, the French statesman and financier.

And to turn from big things to small, let us make mention of the fact that he was called upon constantly while carrying on negotiations with France to deal with petitions from French men and women of all sorts, and that his good nature and diplomacy and well-known benevolence were sadly taxed thereby. In a recent number of Lippincott's there is a very interesting article on "Franklin's Trials as a Benefactor," the material obtained from hitherto unpublished sources in the possession of the American Philosophical society. We are treated to some characteristic memoranda, and the brief article shows us Franklin as both wit and philanthropist.

The author of "Poor Richard" was thrifty and shrewd, but not mercenary. In his printing business he made enough money to provide comfortably for the day when he should be too old to earn more, but he had none of our present age's "grip of greed." He would take no money for his inventions or scientific discoveries—they belonged to mankind. He early formed the habit of giving, and the habit remained fixed. There were long years when he would not accept his benefice, for his span of life was no short one—from January 17, 1706, to April 17, 1790.

They used to call Franklin atheist, but the mature Franklin was, to use a term of to-day, a liberal Christian. In his youth he played with skepticism, and yet it was in his youth he wrote the epitaph which bespeaks faith: "The body of Benjamin Franklin, printer, lies here covered by an old book, its leaves are the scraps of his lettering and gilding, here food for worms. But the work shall not be lost, for it will, as he believed, appear once more in a new and more elegant edition, revised and corrected by the Author."

Men tell, with tongue in cheek, of Franklin's natural son, the child born of the "wrong side of the blanket." But they tell that the father publicly and privately called him son, ever adored toward him fatherly? Hypocrisy was not in Franklin's faults. An honest man, as well as a very great man, he is written down.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Isle of Spice"

One of the most elaborate and gorgeous of musical comedies, is Manager B. C. Whitney's "Isle of Spice" which will appear at this theater in the near future. The "Isle of Spice" was one of the few big musical successes of last season, and if ever a theatrical attraction may lay claim to the often misused title of metropolitan success the "Isle of Spice" may, for within the past two years it has been played 150 nights each in Chicago, Boston and New York City. It has but recently closed its long run at the Majestic Theatre, New York City, and will be presented here with the identical company, scenery, electrical and mechanical effects that have had so much to do with its popularity.

We heard a man say the other morning that the abbreviation of February—Feb.—means Freeze everybody, and that man looked frozen in his ulster. It was apparent that he needed the kind of warmth that stays the warmth that reaches from head to foot, all over the body. We could have told him from personal knowledge that Hood's Sarsaparilla gives permanent warmth, it invigorates the blood and speeds it along through artery and vein, and really fits men and women, boys and girls, to enjoy cold weather and resist the attacks of disease. It gives the right kind of warmth, effects and strengthens at the same time, and all the benefits are lasting. There may be a suggestion in this for you.

The boy is 17 years of age and lived with his father, Ike Johnson, on Mr. Brasher's farm. ## AMUSEMENTS.

"Isle of Spice"

One of the most elaborate and gorgeous of musical comedies, is Manager B. C. Whitney's "Isle of Spice" which will appear at this theater in the near future. The "Isle of Spice" was one of the few big musical successes of last season, and if ever a theatrical attraction may lay claim to the often misused title of metropolitan success the "Isle of Spice" may, for within the past two years it has been played 150 nights each in Chicago, Boston and New York City. It has but recently closed its long run at the Majestic Theatre, New York City, and will be presented here with the identical company, scenery, electrical and mechanical effects that have had so much to do with its popularity.

F. E. B.

We heard a man say the other morning that the abbreviation of February—Feb.—means Freeze everybody, and that man looked frozen in his ulster. It was apparent that he needed the kind of warmth that stays, the warmth that reaches from head to foot, all over the body. We could have told him from personal knowledge that Hood's Sarsaparilla gives permanent warmth, it invigorates the blood and speeds it along through artery and vein, and really fits men and women, boys and girls, to enjoy cold weather and resist the attacks of disease. It gives the right kind of warmth, stimulates and strengthens at the same time, and all the benefits are lasting. There may be a suggestion in this for you.
